DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cockburn (WO 97/06073).

Cockburn discloses first and second webs joined to one another in a face-to-face relationship with an elongated thermal bond on the sides (page 10, 2nd paragraph and Figure 2). Between the two layers is an area that can contain food condiments (page 1, 2nd paragraph). The bond site would naturally fracture upon the application of a sufficient force in the transverse direction.

3. Claims 2 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Friemel et al. (U.S. Patent No. 4,597,218).

Friemel et al. disclose a sachet for pest control (abstract). Two webs are bonded face-to-face with a pest control agent in-between (column 7, line 63 –column 8, line 52 and Figure 6). The sealed edges would produce bonding areas that are longer than they are wide.

4. Claims 3 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Dickinson et al. (U.S. Patent No. 4,876,023).

Dickinson et al. disclose a nonwoven sachet that contains a detergent composition (column 1, lines 43-55). The sachet is created with a heat seal to bond the edge (column 10, lines 1-19), which would create a bonded region with an aspect ratio of at least 2. The detergent composition may contain zeolite material (column 9, line 40), which would act as an odor-absorbing material.

Conclusion

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Jeremy R. Pierce whose telephone number is (703) 605-4243. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Thursday 7-4:30 and alternate Fridays 7-4.
